

Sheryl Westergreen

My work explores geometric form as it applies to architecture, landscape and the human figure. I translate a memory of a place or an experience through the process of abstraction. By observation, contemplation, and repeated layering of paint, the canvas begins to reveal its particular shapes, lines and textures. The paintings are an exploration of color and geometric form as well as an attempt to suggest a feeling or nuance that is not cut off from the psyche and alludes to hidden affinities and elusive qualities.

Westergreen's work is in private and corporate collections throughout the U.S. She is represented by Seattle Art Museum Sales and Rental Gallery, Zatista, and Art Productions New York City. Her work has been in exhibitions nationally and internationally. A native of the Pacific Northwest, she draws inspiration from her immediate surroundings as well as her experiences as a traveler.
